

Hot holding temperature chart

Hot Dog

Hot dog that is meant to be served and displayed for a long time require elevated temperatures for storage. Hot dog is held at 135°F or above to stop the growth of harmful microorganisms and preserve food safety.

In hot holding, the following must be considered:

- Use only equipment intended for hot holding.
- Hot holding equipment is not intended for cooking or reheating hot dog.
- Cover hot dog to protect them from contamination.
- Do not serve hot dog that was kept below the recommended hot holding temperature.
- When foods are in chafing dishes, avoid stirring hot dog.
- Do not use hot-holding equipment for reheating hot dog.
- Measure the temperature at regular intervals.
- Do not mix new batches with the ones already on display.